We met her on another occasion at a floral festival in the Assembly Chamber, given by the Horticultural Society, and we thought then, amid all that splendid array of roses, lilies and tulips, of cut flowers, immortelles, verbenas and fuschias, that the most charming flower of them all was this lovely woman, beautiful in life as well as feature, a devoted wife and mother, who not long since presided over the Executive mansion with an easy grace and dignity that won the warm esteem of all who visited the home of his Excellency. Great credit is due to Mr. Irish of the Park Hotel, to the committee of arrangements and the citizens of Madison generally for the ample arrangements to insure the entire success of this truly magnificent banquet. AEE MEN MOEE POLITE THAN WOMEN There is an article taking the usual tour performed through the newspapers by an Astonishing Fact, containing a sentence which we think the lamented Widow Bedott would pronounce a striking coincidence, to-wit: that man is more polite than woman. Proofs are deduced from the following authorities, viz: omnibusses, crowded churches, street-crossings on a rainy-day, rail-road cars, and other placet. And if there is a Womans Eight woman, or man either, among our readers, do they object to a little chit-chat on the subject Is not woman, if a necessary evil, one to whom man, that lordly distributor of spheres--lends the scepter, in all those provinces in life where grace...
